

The Shulamite Bride

The Bridegroom's Love

Dear Berashith Friend,

We just finished the series on the "Engagement Ring" and started with a new series - "The Shulamite Bride" from the book, Song of Solomon, also known as Song of Songs (Hooglied in the Afrikaans Bible).

The translation of this book in the Passion Bible is a profound love poetry of Christ, our Bridegroom's passion for his bride, divine relationship and his passion to heal his bride and to enhance her beauty to that point that she totally lost her fear and exchanged it for her Bridegroom's pure divine love.

From this love letter, the breathtaking journey unveiled the path of each and every bride-to-be to become his perfect Shulamite bride. It speaks of his saving love, keeping love, forgiving love and embracing love. Henceforth, it becomes more and more clearer that the Book of Song of Solomon calls each and every member of the Body of Christ to become a Shulamite Bride. It is our Bridegroom's passion to transform us unto maturity, into the holy of holies - His dwelling place; from where HE declares:

"Now you are ready, my bride. Come with me through the archway of trust. Together we will wage war" (Song of Songs 4:8 TPT).

We need to come into our battle formation to wage war together with our Bridegroom. The Shulamite Bride is far from a "bride in a white dress, waiting on the couch for her beloved, so too speaking", but is a warrior bride, strong like one of Pharaoh's finest horses, a strong regal steed pulling his royal chariot (Songs 1:9).

The Song of Solomon is far from a poem describing sexuality between a husband and wife as most translations portray. Those who have such an imagery because of a very poor Afrikaans translation from Hollands, I like to encourage to left it behind and joint me on this profound and divine journey to discover to true and deeper attention of our Lover's heart for us, his perfected bride. It is an amazing story - a story of how Yahshua makes his bride beautiful and holy by casting out her fear with perfect love. This sent-from-heaven revelation is waiting to be received with all its intensity and power to unlock the deepest places of our hearts.

From the translator of the Passion Bible, Brian Simmons's pen: "I hear his whisper ... I've come to knock down walls"

I Hear His Whisper . . .
I've come to knock down walls.

The walls you have built around yourself shall crumble before me. The seemingly impossible situations that have wounded you and caused you to barricade yourself in, are nothing but paper to me. I can easily flick them away, if you'll invite me. With me, you don't have to fear being exposed and vulnerable. You don't have to fear being ashamed or embarrassed.

Though you've hidden behind this protective barrier, I desire to draw you out, to make you comfortable in your own skin. I want to teach you how to trust, how to love. I will knock down every wall and set you free. You don't have to hold it all together. You don't have to appear to be something you're not. And you don't need to protect yourself. Let me protect you. Let me heal you with the holy oil of my presence. I want you to walk in awareness of my presence, but I also want you to be aware of your own heart. Give yourself time to get to know yourself and to find the greatness of me inside of you. I want you to know the truth that extinguishes fear, to let my glory be your only enclosure.

Song of Songs 8:9
The Passion Translation

We will build a tower of redemption to protect her. Since she is vulnerable, we will enclose her with a wall of cedar boards.
